London team expands

Thomasin Renshaw has joined Muse Developments' London team as development manager. She was previously with London & Regional.

Thomasin will be working on the team's regional portfolio in London and the South, which includes the Millbay regeneration scheme in Plymouth and the mixed use Chatham Place scheme in Reading. Progress at Millbay is continuing apace with the completion of the first phase and inner basin infrastructure works. The first phase at Chatham Place is now complete and detailed plans are being drawn up for phase two.

She will also be working on securing new business within the region.

Muse's regional director for London and the South, Mike Auger, said, "We're delighted to welcome Thomasin to Muse. She's a great addition to the team and will provide us with the added expertise to expand further."

Thomasin added, "Muse has an exciting portfolio of live schemes and the company's breadth of expertise and strong business model is an exciting prospect for potential business. I'm looking forward to getting started!"
