Muse's Leeds expansion continues as Gale joins

Hot on the heels of Andrew Milne joining the Leeds office of leading national property developer and regenerator of towns and cities, Muse Developments, Raife Gale has now joined the firm as senior development surveyor and becomes the second Yorkshire and North East appointment of 2022.

Raife joins the team from Sovereign Centros and brings over a decade of shopping centre repurposing experience to Muse. Along with assisting the team in growing its regional portfolio across Yorkshire, the North East and East Midlands, Raife will lead the team in delivering Forge Island. This multi-million-pound regeneration scheme is an integral part of Rotherham's long-term vision transforming Forge Island into a vibrant mixed-use destination.

Regional director, James Pitt, said on the appointment: "I'd like to welcome Raife to Muse as our second new appointment for the year. Bringing Andrew and Raife into our regional development team is a signal of our intent to grow and expand our Yorkshire and North East portfolio and Raife will have a fantastic opportunity to work on delivering sustainable, connected schemes that deliver real benefits to communities."

Raife added: "I'm thrilled to be joining one of the biggest and best developers in the business, who are delivering some truly community-focused schemes across the UK, not least in Yorkshire and the North East and I can't wait to get started."
