Muse boosts Leeds project management team

National developer and urban regeneration specialist Muse Developments has expanded its Leeds office with the appointment of Andy Smith as Senior Project Manager.

Andy has more than 20 years' experience in the property sector, including delivering major multi-million pound mixed use projects for Ask Property Developments, Select Property Group, HBOS plc, Christal Management and CJ Smith, his own specialist project management consultancy.

He will support Muse's Leeds office in the delivery of an increasing portfolio of projects across Yorkshire, North East and East Midlands.

Muse's schemes across the region include the 110-acre manufacturing and industrial development Logic Leeds, urban regeneration projects South Shields 365, Doncaster Civic and Cultural Quarter and Northshore in Stockton on Tees, as well as a major commercial and residential development in Hucknall.

David Wells, Muse's regional director for Yorkshire, North East and East Midlands, said: "It's an extremely busy time for us, with a number of major projects underway across the region. Andy brings with him a wealth of experience and skills, which will play a vital role in delivering some of our key schemes."

Andy added: "I'm delighted to have joined such a dynamic company as Muse. I'm really looking forward to working with the team and applying my experience and knowledge in the progression and delivery of major development projects for the business."
