Muse hits a century of Considerate Constructor sites

National mixed-use development and urban regeneration specialists, Muse Developments, has cause to celebrate, following the news that 100 sites have now been signed up to abide by the Considerate Constructors code.

Brook House, Brixton, became the 100th scheme to be registered, which will provide 94 much-needed homes in the area and forms part of the wider Your New Town Hall project in partnership with London Borough of Lambeth.

The wider programme of regeneration has completed a new civic office for the council, refurbished Lambeth's historic town hall, and is developing 194 homes with 40% classed as affordable, alongside a new cycle hub and extensive public realm improvements.

Mike Auger, regional director at Muse Developments, said: "We take great pride in making sure that every development we work delivers exactly what we say it will, but importantly is undertaken in the best interests of the local community.

"At Muse, we're committed to registering our developments on the Considerate Constructors Scheme and abiding to its code of practice. Here's to the next 100."

The Considerate Constructors Scheme is a non-profit-making, independent organisation founded in 1997 by the construction industry to improve its image. Construction sites, companies and suppliers voluntarily register with the scheme and agree to abide by the Code of Considerate Practice, designed to encourage best practice beyond statutory requirements.

Considerate Constructors Scheme chief executive, Edward Hardy, added: "Congratulations to Muse Developments for achieving the impressive 100th site registration milestone with the Considerate Constructors Scheme. Mixed-use developments and urban regeneration projects have a major responsibility to promote the very best of the construction industry; raising standards in respect of the local communities, environment and workforce, impacted by their construction activity. We are delighted that Muse Developments is demonstrating a significant level of commitment to improving the image of the construction industry by being part of the scheme.”
