Sales launched at Stockton's 'Infinity Riverside'

Sales have been launched at Infinity Riverside, the third phase of homes at Muse Developments' Northshore scheme in Stockton-on-Tees.

Five homes were reserved over the launch weekend, with two and three beds proving popular with a range of buyers looking to put down roots in this sought-after riverside location on the banks of the River Tees.

The development comprises 82 two, three and four bed luxury homes on the banks of the River Tees and close to the iconic Infinity Bridge, with many of the homes offering south-facing views overlooking the water. The first two-bedroom homes are ready to move into now with further homes available from the spring.

The homes at Infinity Riverside all benefit from light, airy, living spaces and high ceilings, and every property comes complete with off-road parking, fitted kitchens, bathrooms and high specification fixtures and fitting throughout.

More than 120 new homes in the first two phases of Northshore have been snapped up by buyers keen to secure a home in this desirable location, which combines a tranquil riverside setting with great amenities within walking distance.

The £300m regeneration scheme, which is less than a mile from the town centre; 12 miles from Middlesbrough and 30 miles from Newcastle, is being delivered by developer and urban regeneration specialist, Muse, in partnership with Homes England and Stockton Borough Council. When complete, the 56-acre development will provide a mix of family housing, offices, a new Hampton by Hilton hotel and leisure spaces.

Commented Hollie Reynolds, residential sales and marketing manager at Muse: "We look forward to welcoming the first new residents to join this established neighbourhood over the coming months. I'd encourage interested buyers to book a tour of the show home now and see first-hand our winning mix of modern homes and beautiful riverside location."
